ABOUT THIS — AND — ABOUT THAT

By OLIVER GEDEIST

Is It Important?

Little things are important. By comparison, that is. A grain of sand is important. And it isn't. Depends upon the comparison used. As a phase of majestic nature, a tiny grain of sand assumes real importance. It looms large in the nature of the earth. As an isolated contributing factor in economics, standing alone, and in the general welfare of humankind, the little grain of sand has no standing. It is less than nothing. Yet there must be some modification in that, and the need for modification is representative of the interdependence of one thing upon another and of things to other things.

Modification in this instance is necessary because to locate the significance we must take into account what would happen if one by one all grains of sand could be thrown away into outer space never to return to the earth. By that token, one little grain of sand assumes staggering importance. As you can see, in that event we would throw away the earth, or so much of it that ocean waves and lake waters would in many instances have no sloping shores to protect the land, disaster would descend upon us. Even the earth could fall apart.

Another Application

We are not going to throw away the earth a grain of sand at a time, of course. But the principle is the same in many instances. A few days ago a divorce was granted to a woman who complained that her husband always fought about little things—of no importance. She said he would dig at her about the smallest things, enlarge upon tiny, unimportant things, and then nag and nag. Fighting was regular habit in the home. In many other homes and among many persons this happens regularly, and about subjects that neither of the arguers can control. It's a 'his-and-his' thing. The subject may be of the merest or no importance, yet both parties to the quarrel will argue and become unpleasant simply because of the desire to win an argument. Much unhappiness is caused. And, often, neither of the parties is qualified through knowledge to argue the point involved. That's an example of little things of no value.

Disunity

Much disunity is caused by such attitudes. Social life often is disrupted and dislikes continue long after the subject of a quarrel is forgotten. Friends split over politics, an indefinite point for argument. They split over other simple little things that have no real value in application to living. The thing at the bottom of the quarrel may be as of little consequence in the scheme of life as that little grain of isolated sand. It may be utterly silly. Yet, as a matter of pride, and sometimes as a matter of "showing off," the empty utterance is allowed to become something having a disastrous influence.

Integration

The point is that there are multitudes of tiny and seldom observed and considered factors entering into everything and inseparable in proper relation and indispensable to the whole. In this fact the philosopher finds much good grousing. The careless and the unobservant lose much of understanding and miss much of the values of subjects coming under casual or specific conversation. Sweating out thought has a sweet ending. But, like any other phase of life, the fruits of understanding come only after the application of persistent effort. And there's so little persistence!

ASKS ANOTHER HEARING ON ZONE CHANGE

Ignoring the testimony by Village President Cooper of Mokena of an application filed by Robert Brownlee of Mokena, the Will county zoning board of appeals recently rejected Mr. Brownlee's request for a change of classification to permit operating a small manufacturing plant on his property on South Wolf street near Mokena.

The vote was 3 to 1 against and since the zoning law requires a vote of 4 to 1 to deny an application, Mr. Brownlee has announced his intention of appealing the decision to the full board.

Mr. Brownlee's application was to have the property reclassified to permit him to expand a small shop he has and which has been in operation. He manufactures corn driers and makes dies.

Mokena Mayor Cooper testified in favor of the change in classification, asserting that he is in favor of such small industries for the Mokena area.

MOKENA GRADUATES HONORED BY 7TH GRADERS; EXERCISES TO BE JUNE 1

As a token of farewell, the seventh-grade members of the Mokena grade school, assisted by their mothers with the P.T.A. cooperating, tendered the eighth-grade members a banquet in the school auditorium Thursday evening, May 13.

The auditorium was transformed into a garden, with trellises, garden furniture, and flowers. Eight steps were used and decorated as representing each year of the class in the grade school, carrying out the class motto, "Learn to live, live to learn."

The banquet tables, arranged in a "V" formation, were decorated in the class colors, green and white, with crystal candle holders, and low bowls containing white carnations. A carnation was also at each graduate's place.

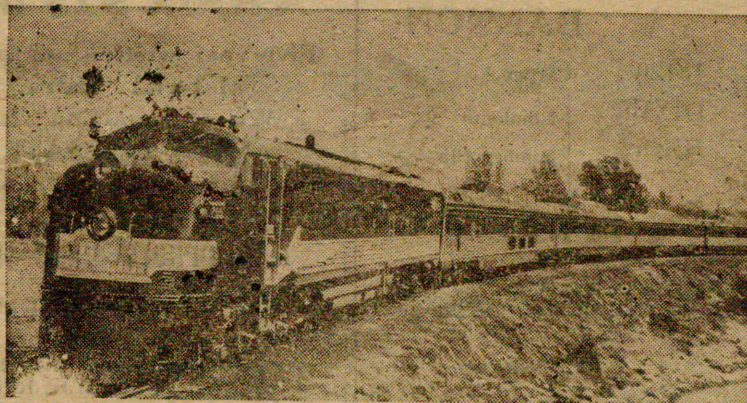

Following the banquet, Mrs. Wendell Hamilton, president of the P.T.A., opened the program, calling upon Jean Cooper for the address of welcome, with Merlyn Larson responding. Miss Joyce Werner gave the class history. Joan Rueckert the class will, Audrey Niethammer the class prophecy. All entered into group singing.

The graduating class presented their teacher, Mrs. Elizabeth Cappel, with a gift.

Graduating exercises will be held in the auditorium Tuesday evening, June 1, at 8 o'clock for the following students: Shirley Bennett, Donald Bergman, William Bradley, Russell Geuther, David Gode, Beverly Hall, Richard Kirk, Merlyn Larson, Audrey Niethammer, Joan Rueckert, Joyce Schiek, Allan Stahl, Ralph Schoeneck, Lyman Teague, Joyce Werner, and Phyllis Yunker.

TELLS WHY DESTROYING FLIES IS NECESSARY; MULTIPLY FAST

According to authorities, a pair of house flies could bury your home if they were allowed to propagate for a period of five months and if all of their descendants lived; the entire surface of the earth would be covered to a depth of 47 feet with flies—fantastic but true.

Will County farm and Urban folks officially declared war on all types of flies May 15. Wayne Churchill, farm adviser, who is chairman of the county-wide fly eradication educational program, urges everyone to do a thorough cleaning up of their premises and asks that all fly breeding places be destroyed before June 1.

Mr. Churchill points out that effective fly control starts before the pests appear in large numbers, and that after that time millions are being born every hour. A good, thorough clean-up will keep many of those millions of flies from ever seeing the light of day.

The big clean-up job on the farm is to get the manure hauled to the fields where it will do the most good. Rubbish and trash should be destroyed. Old straw-stack bottoms should be cleaned.

After the first clean-up job has been done on the farm, sanitary practices should be followed all summer long, the farm adviser says.

In cities and towns, clean-up means getting rid of garbage and trash heaps. Old compost piles should be spread on the garden or buried. Vacant lots and little-used alleys should be cleared of decaying organic matter.

Clean-up and sanitation are the two main helping hands to spraying with DDT, which will be done in the county later on. Without these helping hands, spraying alone will have a tough job to do.

Frankfort Stores To Open Evenings

A number of Frankfort stores closed evenings since the holiday season will be open evenings again effective the first Wednesday of June.

Homer Districts Ask Detachment

Will County Bowlers' Score Is 155 Points

According to an official report from Roy P. Johnson, secretary of the Illinois State Farm Sports Festival, Will county entries in the recent district farm bowling tournament held in Kankakee scored a total of 155 points, which will be applied toward other points that participants will score later in district and state competition.

Walter Russell of Plainfield was the high individual in the men's team in the open class of this district tournament and the Will county Rural Youth was represented by a men's team.

Lt. Gen. Sir Robert Baden Powell was the founder of the original Boy Scout movement.

Homer township is seeking separation of four sections of the township from Orland Park community high school district.

A public hearing has been set in the office of the Will county superintendent of education for next Monday, May 31, at which proponents and opponents will be heard.

Sections 1 and 2 and 11 and 12 of the township presently are part of the Orland high school district. For some months there has been uncertainty whether under the school survey committee's planning both in Cook and Will counties the Homer districts.

More than 8,000 petitions have been signed requesting detachment from Orland and attachment to the Lockport high school district. The district was incorporated into the Orland high school district about 10 years ago at the time of formation of the district.

A. Eisenbrandt 'Of Frankfort Dies Following A Fall

Injuries suffered Wednesday, May 19 when he fell from a ladder while attempting to fit a screen on a second story window, proved fatal last Saturday to 75-year-old Andrew Eisenbrandt of Frankfort. He died at Silver Cross hospital.

According to members of his family, he fell about 14 feet when a leg of the ladder slipped into the soft ground, throwing the ladder off-balance. He fell sideways, striking his head on the ground.

A son, Victor, witnessed the fall and went to his father's aid. Although a physician was called, his injuries did not appear critical. He was taken to Silver Cross hospital for x-rays and he died there about 5 o'clock Saturday morning.

The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Eisenbrandt, he was born in the vicinity of Frankfort and had lived there throughout his lifetime. For about ten years, he farmed near Frankfort, later joining the Breidert contracting firm. After working with them for a number of years as a contractor and carpenter, he went into the contracting business with his two sons, Victor and Harlan.

About a week ago, he completed a new home in the village of Frankfort and moved from the farm north of the village.

Mr. Eisenbrandt was a veteran of the Spanish-American war. Surviving are his wife, Eli abeth; three sons, Victor Harlan of Frankfort, Henry of Calif. Two sisters, Mrs. Edward Teach of Knox, Ind., and Mrs. Anna Warns of Chicago; two brothers, Henry of Frankfort, and Christ of Chicago, and five grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at St. Peter's Evangelical church in Frankfort at 2 p. m. The Rev. Erich Bizer officiated. Burial was in Frankfort cemetery.

JIGGLER-UPPERS, OFF HOOKERS MAKE IT HARD FOR NEIGHBORS

By LINES R. BUSY

This is about jigglers-uppers, off-the-hookers, ringer-answers and listener-inners. . . . Not that I'm trying to slip any new words over on you, but they kind-of-fit when talking about party-line telephones.

During the war, shortages of materials and increased demand for service made it necessary for the telephone company to give party-line service to many who wanted individual lines. Because of continuing demand for service and with many materials still in short supply, the company still cannot furnish individual line service to all who want it. All of which led me to do a little investigating. This resulted in the discovery, among other things, of some new words.

So, I tried 'em out over the pinochle table the other night. Our friends mentioned that the folks on their party-line left their telephone receiver off the hook. That made the line "busy", and no one could call them or anyone else on the line for that matter.

"Most inconsiderate," we all agreed. "He's an off-the-hooker," I said.

And from there we got into the subject of party lines in general. That's where jigglers-uppers and all the rest came in. Mind you, these pinochle partners aren't on our particular party line, but, well, my face was red.

One fellow said he wasn't listener-inner, but recognized himself as a ringer-answering. But, one confessed he was a jigglers-upper. These are the fellows er it's his ring or not. Or, maybe he just doesn't listen to the rings, and because he isn't sure, answers another's call. At any rate, he's already talking to your caller by the time you answer the phone.

And that brings to mind the listener-inner. He's really not such a bad fellow. In fact, he's an American institution, in a way. But we don't get the real old-fashioned kind of listener-inner any more, the kind that used to spend hours at the receiver. Now-a-days it's not considered polite. And when you think about it, he's really invading another fellow's privacy.

The party-line's been a great thing. Early in the history of the telephone business came mechanical developments that made it possible for two or more families or businesses to share a single telephone line. Many thousands who couldn't afford individual line telephone service became party-liners. As each telephone is of greater value as it becomes capable of reaching more people, the party-line may be credited with increasing the value of telephone service to all.

It's serving in another way now. More people want telephone service than ever before. Yet, at a time when margins of reserve equipment have disappeared, there is a nationwide shortage of exchange facilities and cable. So, the telephone company makes better use of available equipment by temporarily putting more than one telephone on a single line. The party-liner, therefore, is giving telephone service to a lot of people who couldn't otherwise have a telephone.

Well, it's obvious that friendly, co-operative use of the party-line means better service for all on the line. So, we asked for some suggestions on how to get the greatest value out of our party-line service. Here are some of the pointers on being good party-line neighbors:

ghbors:

1. Answer calls promptly. If you have a special ring for your telephone, learn to recognize that ring and answer it quickly. When you pick up your telephone, listen to make sure no one is using the line. If you hear some one talking, hang up gently. Give the other fellow a chance to finish his conversation without interruption.

2. Let the other fellow's calls be as private as you want yours to be.

3. If someone else asks to make an emergency call, end your conversation promptly.

4. And if you must make a number of telephone calls, wait a little between each so that other parties on your line can use the telephone, too.

5. Like table manners, telephone manners are part and parcel of modern child training. When you teach your children to use the telephone correctly, your party-line neighbors appreciate it.

We've started our party-line reform right here at home. I admit when I thought of these things—and remembered back a little—my face was a bit on the crimson side. But that's just between us party-line neighbors.

In the United States rye is used chiefly for the manufacture of malt and spirituous liquors. In parts of Europe it is used for food.

FERTILIZER USE IN ILLINOIS UP

Illinois farmers bought 289,747 tons of mixed fertilizers during 1947, or an average of nearly a ton and a half for each of the state's two hundred thousand farms.

A report compiled by E. E. DeTurk, agronomist at the University of Illinois college of agriculture, shows that more fertilizer was bought last year than in 1946. Principal changes were increases of 30 per cent in fertilizers, 37 per cent in fertilizer materials, and 42 per cent in rock phosphate, including coloidal.

The most popular fertilizer among 35 different formulations was a 2-12-6 analysis. Sales of this grade totaled 101,230 tons during the year. The next highest was 3-12-12 of which 73,533 tons were sold.

The volume of mixed fertilizers sold in 1946 was 221,213 tons compared with the 289,747 tons in 1947. The figure for 1945 was 152,792 tons, and for 1944 132,901.

On the basis of reports supplied by fertilizer manufacturers, about 60 per cent of the fertilizer sales are made during the spring months.

YOUR OLD FLAME HAS THE New Look!

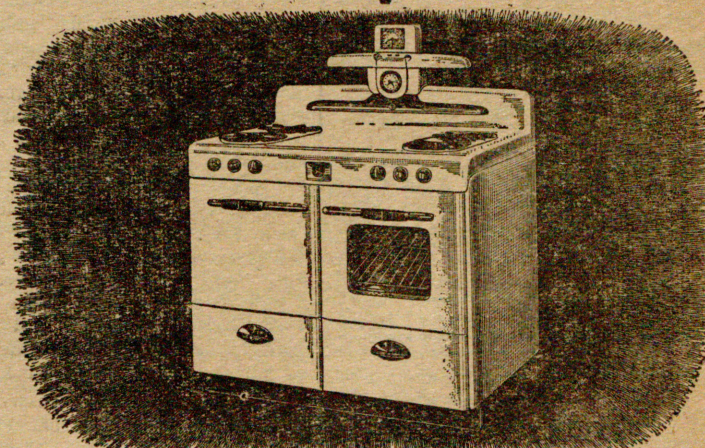

IT COOKS without the cook!

THERE'S LOTS that's new about today's GAS ranges besides their gleaming white beauty! GAS range performance has the "new look" too! Automatic cooking . . . the modern, carefree way to prepare meals . . . is yours in the new GAS ranges. Think of it—a simple-to-set, dependable-to-use clock control turns the oven on and off while you're away from home! Time and temperature controls are so accurate you're sure of perfect results every time.

Your new GAS range will be much more efficient than the one you're replacing. Thick blanket insulation seals the heat in the oven and broiler. Your kitchen stays cooler . . . your fuel bills lower. Surface burners have the new "tailored" flame to prevent heat escaping around the edges of the pan.

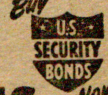

Today's GAS ranges still have all the time-tried features you depend upon. Instant-heat burners still give you the exact shade of heat you want . . . flame-roasting and broiling are still unsurpassed for flavor. New ranges are available now at your dealer or nearest Public Service Company store.

TRUE FUNCTIONAL DESIGN

True Functional Design is beauty with a purpose. For example, the STREAM-THRU fenders of the Kaiser or the Frazer are a style feature others have attempted to copy. But the real reason for the design has been overlooked. The true function is to provide more usable space without increasing over-all width. Only the Kaiser and the Frazer have more usable space. MORE SEAT WIDTH! . . . MORE HEADROOM! . . . MORE LUGGAGE SPACE! The Kaiser and the Frazer aren't the same old girls in a new dress—they're new from the road up! Best of all these modern cars from Willow Run are yours at no increase in price!

A Smart Clock
One of the most unusual clocks in the world, according to the World Book Encyclopedia, is the great clock in the Cathedral of Strasbourg, France. This clock not only tells the hour and the positions of the heavenly bodies, but also points to the day of the month. Below the dial which tells the time of day is a procession of gods and goddesses which show the days of the week. Quarter hours are struck by figures on the clock, one of which turns an hour-glass. At noon each day a procession of the apostles appears, while a cock above crows three times.
Fifty per cent of the world's supply of cacao beans, from which chocolate is made, are used by the United States, says the World Book Encyclopedia.

The Parable of the Good Gardener

One gardener tried to raise vegetables in poor soil without much humus or fertilizer, and got plants that which quickly made all the nice vegetables disappear.

However, and fortunately, another gardener managed better, and raised splendid crops for his own family to eat fresh and throughout the following winter, canned and frozen. This GOOD gardener was much admired by his family, his neighbors, and his government, which is faced with problems of shipping large quantities of food abroad, fighting inflation, insuring food supplies for any emergency.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

It's Leap Year, Girls!

First girl in our town to "get her man" on Leap Year was the Cuppers' daughter, Jane, who wed Bill Webster's boy last Saturday.

When I asked Bill Jr. it was true that Jane really did the proposing, Bill said: No, but she made it plain she'd make an ideal wife. Instead of looking for diversion or excitement every evening, she was content to chat beside the fire.

"I could plainly see," says Bill, "that we'd really have a happy home life—which is just exactly what I want from marriage."

I know it's usual for older folks to shake their heads over the younger generation. (It's gone on for hundreds of years, now.)

But from where I sit, young people of marrying age today are every bit as commendable as their elders were—in their temperance (a glass of beer for instance), tolerance, and common sense. So to Jane and Bill—the best of luck!

Woman's World

Select Washable, Wearable Clothes for Informal Wear

By Ertta Haley

THERE are many of us who don't consider ourselves dressmakers of any skill, but I've yet to see the woman who doesn't like to make something for herself, even if it's only a simple picnic blouse and skirt.

The materials which have reached the market recently are intriguing enough to bring everyone to their beck and call. You'll see the most delightful cottons, exquisite rayons and nice sleek, cool linens. The colors are everything and more you've desired, so why not just go on a little, if not a big spree, and see the pleasure of sewing something for yourself.

If you like picnics and gardening, you'll be fascinated with the full skirts with their swish of ruffle. If you like sports, you'll certainly want to make a pair of shorts and skirts as well as blouse for your activities. At least you certainly will if you see some of the nice prints available.

Choose your pattern first to fit you and the activity; then choose the fabric to fit the pattern as well as the activity. Let these all combine to make a more attractive you.

Don't feel that you have to finish the garment at one sitting. Cut at one, baste at another and then sew it altogether, leaving the fine finishing touches for another sitting. In this way you won't hurry the work and become careless.

Style Notes for Skirts and Blouses

Skirts are very full this season, even, or especially, if they are the casual cottons. They swirl with action and have tiny waistlines.

Blouses, too, are of great interest, and they boast of the gay nineties look. Collars are very tiny or large.

Make play clothes light . . .

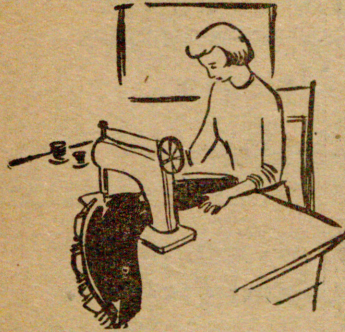

There is nothing much in-between. Shoulder interest in the blouses is modified, they're somehow softer and more extended to give a flattering silhouette.

Stripes and plaids are very good for blouses, and the skirts boast of checks, solids and plaids.

You can't go wrong if you select white because that is one of the big things this season, but white is very effectively combined with black as well as very bright and rich monotonies like royal, kelly and red.

In stripes and plaids the favorite color combinations are salmon and turquoise, lime and lilac as well as gold and gray.

When you look at the picture in playsuits, there are not only very delectable solids that go well with these patterns, but also prints such as you've never seen.

If you're the tailored type, stay with the solids in rayon or linen, for they're sleek and cool and always make you look beautiful. If you're more casual, try an all print or a print and solid combination.

Styles in Play Clothes Considered Interesting

Whatever your feelings about the new look, you're certain to like what they're showing in the casual department. You'll find many backless dresses that come with boleros that will make them just right for street wear. Shorts come with halters, and in many cases the skirts that cover them are voluminous. You'll bask in their luxury.

Naturally, if you golf, you'll want a smaller type of skirt, such as a four gored type topped by a halter, or something even more classic. You'll find the boleros very practical and this means that with so many parts to a dress you can mix prints and monotone colors.

Choose that style that will suit your activities, and then play the material with the same thing in mind. If you make the four-piece dress I've mentioned, you'll find it very practical for many needs such as golf, shopping, tennis or the beach.

Vacation Bound

For riding or relaxing, Clair McCardell has designed this charming Bermuda cedar costume of wool knitted fabric. The abbreviated riding pants are topped by a striped strapless halter and bolero jacket.

Perk up the outfit with white pique piping to make the clothes trim and neat. The boleros are enhanced with large collars as well as the new three quarter length sleeves.

Washability is one of the requisites to look for in playsuit material. If, to that, you can add an easy ironing feature, so much the better for keeping spic and span.

Judge Your Workmanship By Professional Standards

The dress, bolero or top should fit at the shoulders without any pulling or straining. The shoulder seam should lie about 1/4 inch back of the center of the shoulder and be absolutely straight from neckline to sleeve seam.

If you are square shouldered you don't need much padding. If the shoulders are round and sloping you'll need just enough padding to make the dress look proper.

If your dress or blouse has a collar, the latter should lie flat without wrinkling. Wrinkles from neckline to shoulder are certainly an indication of tightness somewhere around the neckline, shoulder of sleeve seam.

If the skirt is on the slim side, look for an easy fit over the hips. The slim skirts should be a little longer than full ones to give the fashionable length, but select the length which is best looking for you.

Make your waistline fit properly and don't try to camouflage looseness with a belt as this only makes a messy result.

Armholes should be big enough so that you feel at ease and comfortable. Avoid tight cuffs if your arms are chubby.

FINISHING TOUCHES

In a season where brief jackets are following much the same silhouette, it's the detailing that will add fashion and distinction. There are cleverly cut pockets to add hip interest to a close fitting shortie, flaring cuffs of many cuts and collars that are a foil to bright chiffon scarfs worn knotted about the throat.

Be Smart!

How will you have your footwear when summer comes—colored or white? One happy solution is many colors with a touch of white, gay as a Mardi Gras harlequin! Another is pure white linen which you wear white or have dyed to match your favorite suit or dress. Very important, too, are the off whites, such as sand or natural, often in combination with russet leather.

TOWN AND COUNTRY FASHIONS

By VI VENNETTI

COTTONS FOR ALL PURPOSES

Washable cottons fulfill every personal wardrobe necessity this summer. From Town dresses to Country casuals, from daytime play clothes to evening glamour, you can count on cottons to fill the bill.

Here's the complete cotton wardrobe: (1) The cotton dress for Town wear will be a big wanted summer fashion in dark broadcloths and pretty pastel the loose, full monastic dress will be stripes. Long sleeves and the return of popular for town.

(2) The sunback cotton with sophisticated jacket or bolero for Town into Country wear continues its number one place for practical summer wear.

(3) The cabana beachdress with cape or stole takes an important place in the cotton picture following its big success in the resort season.

(4) The spectacular dress is a smart summer fashion for resort and town wear, softer this year with low or capelike bodices and full skirt.

(5) Play suits in cotton are more sophisticated than ever before, although generally they are a minor fashion. Buy them for their new style details like the rounded shoulders, long sleeves smart colors.

(6) Cotton swimsuits are prettier than ever before and take well to young two-piece fashions which we believe will return strongly this summer.

(7) The blouse and skirt duo for the junior and teen agers. This summer, skirts and blouses incorporate the smartest style features of high-priced cotton dresses and therefore are a natural. Since this is a cotton year your fashion reporter feels that this cotton glossary is in order and may help to identify some of the newer types of weave we are not so familiar with. batiste, sheer fabric with lengthwise streak; bedford cord, corded fabric with strong rib weave in raised lengthwise lines.

The SISTER FROCKS in lively checked cotton are cunning and most attractively modelled by the very popular little Durnell sisters of Homan avenue in Markham.

The smart summer print of aqua crepe with love birds flying thither and yon looping nosegays of soft lime and white flowers together with a very beautiful shade of brown, soft shoulders V neck, gracefully draped harem slit skirt, is worn by the very charming young mother of the four adorable Durnell sisters. Mrs. Jane Durnell is accenting her smart dress with large pearls, shiny open crown large brim straw picture hat heaped with flowers repeating the colors of the print dress. A sling calf purse completes this perfect summer's day outfit.

SCHOOL BUS COSTS HIGH IN ILLINOIS

URBANA - CHAMPAIGN. — School transportation costs are higher in Illinois and Nebraska than in any of the other 46 states, the bureau of research and service, University of Illinois college of education, reported today.

Citing a recent study by the United States Office of Education, the bureau indicated that Illinois and Nebraska also were the two lowest-ranking states in per cent of public school enrollment transported to school.

The bureau pointed out that transportation, like other school services, is most expensive on a per capita basis in small districts. In general, the larger the school district, the cheaper transportation costs will be. Even with present high prices, the report stated, a district adequate in size can transport pupils at a per capita cost of $35 annually, while small districts have difficulty doing the job for $50 per pupil.

It was revealed that annual costs per pupil for school transportation service in 1943-44 were about seven times greater in Illinois than in North Carolina, four times greater than in Kentucky, and two times greater than in Indiana. Illinois transported only four per cent of her pupils, while North Carolina and Indiana each transported one-third or more and Kentucky one-fourth.

SOUTHERN WOMEN INITIATED MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVANCE

Out of the great struggle between the Union of the States and the Southern Confederacy, has come the most reverent of all American holidays—Memorial Day.

Since 1868, a special day known at first as Decoration Day has been set aside for decorating the graves of our soldier dead. May 30 was chosen by Gen. John A. Logan, commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, as the day that "every post of the Grand Army should hold suitable exercises and decorate graves of their dead comrades with flowers."

During the 80 years that have followed Gen. Logan's inauguration of Memorial Day, the ranks of dead comrades have swelled to include the fallen soldiers of all wars. Gradually the custom has been extended to include all graves, and the day has become not only a day of patriotic commemoration, but of personal and family dedication as well.

Although Memorial Day is a legal holiday in most of the United States and her possessions, it's not universally celebrated on May 30th. This date is observed by the northern states, but the southern states have their own days for honoring their dead. According to the World Book Encyclopedia, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, and Mississippi set aside May 10, and Louisiana and Tennessee on June 3. Virginia is the exception, and honors her dead May 30.

Memorial Day actually originated in the south, when southern women scattered the graves of Confederate and Union soldiers with spring flowers. Like most of our holidays, however, at least a part of the tradition of Memorial Day is traceable to ancient times. Decorating the graves of the dead has been done since the days of the Druids, and of the early Greeks and Romans. Solemn rites called Zool were performed over each new Greek grave, and during their Parentalia, the Romans decorated the graves of their dead with garlands of flowers, and covered their couches with leaves and blossoms.

Other countries also have Memorial Day observances for their dead. French cemeteries bloom with flowers on their "Jour des Morts," and on the Eve of the Trinity in Roumania, presents are exchanged for prayers for the living as well as the dead. In the East Indies and parts of China the graves are decorated on a special day called "Ching Ming," or Festival of the Tombs.

Three famous Italian volcanoes are Etna, Vesuvius, and Stromboli.

Van Wie will attend their auxiliary meeting this week in Chicago.

Members are preparing to make the program June 7 at Oak Forest institution a gala day. Sally Borg is chairman.

Birthday Luncheon

A group of neighbors helped Anamay Wales celebrate her birthday Monday, a three-tiered decorated cake made by Mrs. Prucitt was the centerpiece of the table. Amo Colono, Gibbons, Pickett, Lillie, Campbell; Parker; Van Wie were among those in attendance.

Round-Up

Edith Henslee, summer round-up chairman of the Markham PTA, has announced that those who registered for round-up for preschool children will be notified of day and hour of examination at McClaughry school.

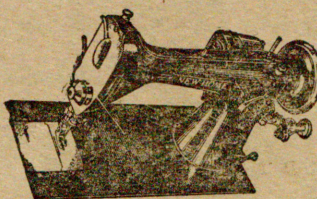

Baseball

The Markham Rockets won 10 to 5 from Club 66 from Chicago. The feature hits were Ronny Seymore, a triple, and Bob Goers, a triple. Pal Schroeder and Don Holmes were pitchers. Hank Baasch and Bob Goers were catchers.

Next Sunday, May 30, the Markham Rockets will play the Martinton town team here on the home field, 160th and Kedzie avenue. Time: 2:30.

Good Neighbor Policy Urged In Fly Control

One important way that you can help make the Illinois fly control program a success is to follow the "good neighbor" policy and share your spray equipment. H. B. Petty, entomologist with the University of Illinois and the State Natural History Survey, says spraying with DDT will get underway in northern Illinois the first week in June. And it's not too early to get lined up on spray equipment.

If you have a power sprayer or a small 2 to 5 gallon pressure sprayer, you might check to see if your neighbor would like to use it when you are through. Mr. Petty says some farm communities may want to pool labor and equipment and do the spraying job on a cooperative basis.

PACKING COMPANY QUICKLY EXPANDS PHOSPHATE OUTPUT

Production operations in three new Swift & Company super-phosphate plants, which started in May, will help meet the urgent need for increased supplies of superphosphate in the Midwest and southwest. C. T. Prindle, vice president in charge of plant food operations, reports.

"The company's expansion in the production of superphosphates was taken to keep pace with the greatly increased demand in the midwestern and southwestern states," Mr. Prindle pointed out. "Phosphate is the principal ingredient of complete plant foods and also is widely used alone on soil conserving crops in connection with the government's soil conservation program."

The new phosphate acidulating units, located at Cleveland, Ohio, East St. Louis, Ill., and Shreveport, La., will have a combined annual capacity up to 300,000 tons.

Ray phosphate for the new super-phosphate plants will be supplied from two company mines in the rich Florida phosphate field near Bartow.

"During the war and since, farmers have become increasingly aware of the value of phosphates in helping boost the production of feed and forage crops," the official said. "Phosphates are important in the development of a vigorous root system in growing plants."

TAXPAYERS NOW CAN CONTROL PUBLIC TAXES

SPRINGFIELD—For the first time in the history of Illinois, the taxpayers can determine just how much they want to spend for local government by using the referendum provisions of House Bill 513. These referendum provisions are permanent.

These referendum provisions make it possible for taxpayers in any community to raise or lower tax rates and control the taxing power of their local governments.

Tax rate limits may be reduced, with no restriction on the amount they can be reduced, by referendum called either by the governing body or by petition of citizens. Rate limits may be increased only by referendum initiated by the governing body. A referendum either to raise or lower a tax rate limit cannot be held more often than once a year (tax attorneys say this means at least 365 days must elapse between such referenda).

Taxpayers will not have to vote blindly in the future, as in the past, on referenda to increase tax rates with no knowledge of what their votes might cost them.

Taxpayers must be given notice by publication in one or more newspapers of general circulation in the taxing district at least 20 days prior to any such referendum, and the notice must set forth not only the question to be voted on, but also an estimate of the approximate amount of money that would be yielded by the proposed tax rate limitation compared to the amount that would be yielded by the existing tax rate limit.

The ballot itself must show not only the proposed tax rate limit, but also the existing tax rate limit. And, on the ballot form but not as a part of the ballot proper, must be shown an estimate of the approximate amount of money that would be yielded by the proposed rate limit compared to the amount yielded by the existing rate limit.

In other words, the taxpayer can see on the ballot just what he is paying and what he will be called upon to pay.

Every downstate local government subject to the tax rate limitations of House Bill 513 was subject to more stringent tax rate limitations in 1945 prior to the passage of the 100 per cent assessment laws. Although H. B. 513 makes it possible for local governments to get more money generally in 1947 than they could have had if the 100 per cent assessment program had not been passed, passage of this H. B. 513 by the General Assembly has deprived local governments of the tremendous increase in taxing power that they in many cases abused in 1946, and has restored protection to the taxpayers against similar abuses in 1947 and later years. Local governments that were unduly restricted by the more stringent tax rate limitations prior to the passage of the 100 per cent assessment laws had to go to the people at an election for authority to increase the tax rate. Under the more liberal limitations of H. B. 513, the local government still has that power to ask for a tax rate increase by referendum, and the referendum provisions have been clarified and simplified.

Every property owner in downstate Illinois owes a debt of gratitude to the members of the General Assembly for restoring protection against excessive taxing power that was abused in so many instances in 1946, and for giving the power to the people, where it belongs, to raise or lower tax rates and control the taxing power of their local governments on the basis of need.

Start Mastitis Fight At the Calf Stage

The fight against mastitis in Illinois dairy herds should be carried out in the calf pen as well as in the dairy barn, says Dr. E. A. Woelffer, extension specialist, University of Illinois college of veterinary medicine.

Mastitis sometimes gets a start in calves. Doctor Woelffer says. If pail-fed heifer calves are allowed to suck each other after a feeding of milk, resulting udder injuries may allow mastitis germs to enter. The germs may then cause serious mastitis infections to show up when the heifer come into production.

If you find it necessary to keep several calves which have the sucking habit in the same pen, tie them or keep them in their stanchions for at least 30 minutes after they have been fed their milk. Giving the calves grain and good quality hay will help to rid them of the sucking habit. If this feeding practice is followed, few first-calf heifers will show mastitis or have blind quarters at freshening time.

Malachi Demands Sincere Religion

Lesson for May 16, 1948

GET ready for some straight talk in next Sunday's lesson. Malachi reveals the dark picture of unrequited love, polluted offerings, impious priests, unfaithful husbands. You wonder if Sam Jones has come back to life. He begins by crying, "The burden of the word of the Lord to Israel by Malachi." We shall miss the entire meaning of this lesson if we fail to read every word of the Book of Malachi. We cannot claim any of the promises of a better day, as indicated in the latter section of Malachi unless and until we deal with such hypocrisy as may infect our lives today, even as the priests and people were consumed with iniquity when Malachi prophesied unto them.

GIVING OUR BEST TO GOD

"A SON honoureth his father, and a servant his master; if then I be a father, where is mine honour? and if I be a master, where is my fear?" Malachi 1:6.

How can God bring good out of evil, when his people hold back their best from him? Let us bring it closer home, and ask, How can our earthly parents do their best for us, when we give them half-hearted allegiance?

OUR BEST IN WORSHIP

PASSAGES in the first, second and third chapters of Malachi reveal the lack of sincerity on the part of the priests in the worship which they offered and which they taught the people to offer. Here we see that unclean hands can never bring an acceptable offering unto the Lord. He looketh on the heart. He knows what is in man.

Using the house of God to make a show before men was one of the shameful evils of the priests in the days of Malachi. It did not fool God then, nor will it fool him today. Unless our worship is an expression of something fine and sincere, he will not accept it.

THE DAY OF RECKONING

"BEHOLD, I will send my messenger, and he shall prepare the way before me; and the Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to his temple, even the messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in. . . But who shall abide the day of his coming?"

One would think that such words of warning would have brought the priests and the people to their senses in humble contrition before God; but they continued to disregard the words of God's messenger.

"For, behold, the day cometh, that shall burn as an oven; and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble; and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the Lord of hosts, that it shall leave them neither root nor branch."

Thus did God warn. And the day of reckoning did come—a day in which priests and people went down beneath the chariot wheels of the invaders. And once again the warnings of God, though despised, were fulfilled to the last word in the terrible punishment upon those who forgot him.

THE PROMISE TO THE FAITHFUL

BUT God does not forget those who truly love him, and thus the Book of Malachi closes with the words of promise to the faithful. "But unto you that fear my name shall the Sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings; and ye shall go forth, and grow up as calves of the stall," Malachi 4:2.

The remnants of those who remained true to God in the midst of a wicked generation were used to perpetuate his witness in the earth. The dark days of persecution could not put out the light of his presence and peace.

Let us pause as we study this Book of Malachi and search our own souls, lest we be guilty of the hypocrisy which destroyed the people in the long ago. With every strand of strength which he grants us, let us do with our might what our hands find to do, and the peace that passeth all understanding will be our portion.

"And all flesh shall see the salvation of the Lord."
